

Dear Lord Carnarvon,

I am writing to you today to find the one and only Tutankhamun's tomb. I am a British Egyptologist. I need a partner in crime. I know it sounds silly but I do. I have no money. I've heard that Tutankhamun is on the loose! Maybe you can have a think about it.

I have evidence that Tutankhamun's tomb is full of riches, valuable help me. Wouldn't you want your name to go down in history?

You might have some thinking to do with this so can you maybe have a conversation with me?

Firstly, there has been a huge gap in the research of pharaohs. I hope you agree with me that you will find me a bit of money?

Tutankhamun has been buried for over 3,000 years. Don't you want the opportunity to find him and have the credit for about more than 5000?

You have the money I have the skill. It's a deal! Do you need money to work as a team. This has been a dream for more than 16 years.

Yours sincerely Howard Carter.
